LIFE IN GOD

(Written for The Christian Science Monitor)

Mrs. Eddy declares the belief of life to matter to be the basic error of the carnal or mortal mind. The persistent and universal tendency of mortal man is to regard the thing seen as the basis of being, instead of taking into consideration the mistaken sense which is itself doing the investigating. Even when modern physical science looks behind "matter" to unseen "force" for first causes, it is in reality looking to the very beliefs which produce its own phenomena, instead of to God, infinite Mind, for causation. This tendency of mortal thought to bury itself in phenomena pervades all its categories, and reappears throughout history.

When Solomon consummated the hopes and plans of his father, David, and built the temple in Jerusalem, he exclaimed, "Behold, heaven and the heavens cannot contain thus how much less this house which I have built!" He saw plainly that the temple was not literally the house of God, but the symbol of the nation's spiritual aspirations, and a convenient place for their assembling to satisfy what they thought were their religious needs. The temple was to him the manifestation of a quality of thought. Yet as the years passed the Hebrew people plunged into the very mistake he had sought to avert in his dedicatory prayer. They sought to hallow God to the stone and wood of the temple structure, and made it obligatory to their assembling to satisfy what they thought were their religious needs. The church as an organization, instead of the spiritual truth the church stood for, became their preoccupation and claimed their allegiance, and the power to beat and smite was lost for a time.

Thanks to Mrs. Eddy this age has seen the rediscovery of the spiritual truths that Jesus came to teach. "Life is Mind," she says, "the Creative reflected in this creation." If He dwelt within what He creates, God would not be reflected but absorbed, and the Science of Being would be forever lost through a mortal sense, which falsely testifies to a beginning and an end." Science and Health, p. 211. Once more the mortal sense of things has been unmasked and men have been shown that, instead of being made of the dust of the ground and condoned by God, man is here and now spiritual, the host of the kingdom of God. Mrs. Eddy has never destroyed the illusions that people, especially the Hebrews, had created, and

Jesus' clear perception that an idea is not bound in its expression but is merely embodied, was shown in his reference to His body as "this temple" with the declaration that when it destroyed He could in three days raise it up. The challenge was given as

A RUSH TO PAY UNCLE SAM

Wiley O. Cox, Deputy Collector, Urges Those Affected to Get Busy at the Earliest Possible Moment

There are 60 days from date to pay taxes at the United States internal revenue office, third floor, post office building.

Individuals and corporations subject to income tax, should pay this tax at once. Failure to receive notice of amount due does not exempt persons from penalties which fall to pay before June 30.

For individuals and corporations subject to income tax, should pay this tax at once. Failure to receive notice of amount due does not exempt persons from penalties which fall to pay before June 30.

For corporations subject to income tax for 1914, and all special tax 1915, are resulted in the new applications and pay now tax due on before July 1st. Failure to do so will mean that continue to process file will be subject to heavy penalty.

Taxes due include the following:

Income taxes from individuals and corporations, special taxes from wholesale and retail liquor dealers, brewer-recipients, and wholesale and retail cigar-manufacturers, new registration and tax from all physicians, dentists, veterinarians, druggists, barbers, etc., under the antitrust act; special emergency taxes from brokers, theorists, alchemists and other public exhibitions, bowling alleys, pool and billiard rooms, commission merchants, all dealers in tobacco, cigars and cigarette.

Wiley O. Cox, Jr., deputy collector in charge of the St. Joseph division, says there are still many persons liable for these taxes who have not paid and who have not filed their application for the above special taxes. This means that in the last few days of June a big rush must follow when many persons will necessarily fall off registration and payment, and therefore all such will incur a heavy penalty.

Special tax payers are especially urged by Mr. Cox to make returns at once at the Internal Revenue Office, Third Floor, Post Office Building.

Sheriff Jones' Presbyterian Story

Haynes, a Presbyterian minister, was traveling through the mountainous sections of Eastern Kentucky. Halting late Sunday evening in front of a cabin door popped open and a woman peered out. "Where is your husband?" said Mr. Haynes.

"Gone hunting! He killed two whoppin' big ones last Sunday."

"Isn't your husband fear the Lord?"

"Oh, yes, always takes his gun."

"Are there any Presbyterians in this country?"

"I don't know whether he has killed any Presbyterians or not. You can go out in the shed and look at the bodies."

CLOGGED UP BY SEDIMENT

Flow of Water in City Mains Restricted by Sedimentation and Insects Taking Place Within.

It has only recently been observed that the efficiency of the flow of water in a city main is very much restricted by the sedimentation which takes place in them. Because of the stones with which these deposits occur, it is not readily noticeable, but no difference is quickly discernible in making out of the character of the stream pressure, therefore before and after passing in the case of an eight-inch pipe in Camden, N. J., the capacity was found to have been cut down to less than one-quarter. Another illustration may be derived from the experience of Bell's Plains Is. Here a cast iron water pipe nearly a mile long and six inches in diameter had a capacity when clean of 500 gallons a minute, with a pressure of 60 pounds. This pipe became so clogged that a pressure of 125 pounds was necessary in order to deliver 218 gallons a minute. There are several mechanical means of accomplishing this task. One consists in the pipe and sent along by pressure behind it, and as it moves the deposit is cut by the many revolving knives of which it is made. A flow of water is maintained and the released material is washed away as it is detached.

Do you dream of great Russian commercial fleets sailing the Mediterranean in continuous procession? May be the English, so-called "nation of traders," are dreaming such things. Maybe the next mighty struggle will be between the two great allies whose gunboats now have designs on the opposite ends of the Dardanelles passage. Strange things have happened, and after all, trade largely makes up the soul and conscience of nations.

Even.

The conscientious girl worried so much over having paid for two eggs with bad money that soon the unconscientious girl also developed a conscience.

It really is too bad that you cheated the poor man," she said, the next time they met. "I think I feel almost as bad about it as you do."

"Oh, don't worry," said the conscientious girl. "I am glad of it now. Both the eggs were bad."
